See DO3. 2. 2026 Annex A*	AI was used for activity planning, topic support, and reviewing the clarity, accuracy, and alignment of the lesson. The teacher remains responsible for contextualizing, validating, and delivering the final lesson based on learners' needs, language, and classroom realities.

Intentions

Meaningful learning experiences are anchored in how we frame them. Start by deciding what you want learners to master by the end of the lesson – keep it clear and simple.
Remember: Understanding your learner's evolving context and designing around it ensure that your lessons connect with and are relevant to them.

Learning Competency and Curriculum Standards: Write the competency/ies from the curriculum that we are targeting, and the content or performance standards applicable to the sessions	Learning Competency: • Distinguish the book of accounts (Sales Journal, Purchase Journal). • Analyze simple business transactions following the rules of debit and credit. • Journalize transactions using the general and special journals Content Standards: The learners should have knowledge and understanding of: • The learners demonstrate understanding of the fundamental concepts and principles of accounting and accounting for service business.

	Performance Standards: By the end of the term, the learners are able to: • The learners analyze key accounting functions and principles relevant to real enterprise operations such as type of business, books of accounts used, and accounting process methodology.
Learning Objectives: Write the smaller knowledge, skills, or tasks from the competency that the learners will work on and be able to show by the end of the sessions.	• Differentiate between a Sales Journal and a Purchase Journal based on the nature of the transaction. • Analyze business scenarios to determine the appropriate special journal and source document to use. • Accurately record "on account" (credit) transactions into the proper journal tables following the rules of debit and credit.
Learner Context: Write your observations of your learners, and how they have been performing or responding to learning experiences recently. Include strengths, interests, and possible barriers to learning.	Learners can connect accounting to familiar experiences such as saving money, paying expenses, and keeping track of purchases. Clear examples, visual supports, and step-by-step practice will help learners who are still building familiarity with accounting terms and transaction effects.

Learning Experience

Learning experience is like a thoughtfully designed journey. Each activity and intersection builds towards meaningful understanding and growth. Identify activities and interactions to help learners gain knowledge, skills, or understanding in a purposeful and coherent way.

	TEACHER'S ACTIVITY	STUDENT'S ACTIVITY
Pre-Lesson: Describe how you will help the learner get ready for the lesson.	Greets the class and asks a student volunteer to lead the opening prayer. Before allowing the students to sit, instruct them to look under their chairs and pick up any pieces of trash.	Greets the teacher and participates in the opening prayer. Checks under their chairs, picks up trash, disposes of it properly before taking their seats.

	Asks the assigned cleaners to tidy up the classroom.
	Greets the class again and sets up the 4 Classroom Rules: - Raise your hand and wait for your turn to speak. - Listen & pay attention when someone is speaking. - Participate actively and complete the activities given. - Use respectful words and actions	Listens to the teacher's introduction and agrees to follow the established classroom rules for the session.
	"To kick things off, let's play a game called 'PAUTANG OR UTANG?'" "Imagine our class runs a small clothing brand. We don't deal with cash today, only PROMISES." I will read 5 quick situations. Raise your LEFT hand if it's Pautang (someone owes us), and raise your RIGHT hand if it's Utang (we owe someone). Ready?"	"Ready, Ma'am!"
	Teacher reads of 5 scenarios and the students raises their hands based on their answers. 1. A school dance team takes 20 custom hoodies and promises to pay us next week. 2. We order 50 blank t-shirts from a textile factory and told them that we will pay next month.	Students listen to the scenarios and actively participate.

	3. Nadine Lustre takes 3 luxury dresses for a shoot and signs a promise to settle the bill next month. 4. We take 5 boxes of fabric ink from a vendor and add it to our monthly running tab. 5. Star Magic orders 10 custom jackets and promises to pay next month.
Lesson Flow: Describe the activities that you can implement in 1 or more session to meet your intentions. Apply the Learning Design Principles, use the prompts below as a guide. Note, not all principles are expected in every lesson. • Make the objectives clear for the learners • Guide learners before letting them try the task on their own • Check the state of the learners' well-being, understanding, and mastery over the lesson • Connect today's new concepts to past competencies • Encourage collaboration among learners • Invite learners to reflect on why this matter to them • Ensure inclusion for learners' varied abilities, learning styles, and contexts	"Excellent! Those 'promises' are what we call 'on account' transactions in accounting. "When it's 'Pautang', we use what we call a Sales Journal. A Sales Journal is used to record all sales on credit." "Remember, the source document for this journal is the Charge Invoice issued by our business." "Let's look at the columns: Date, Description (which is the Customer's Name), Ref, Invoice No., Debit Accounts Receivable, and Credit Sales." "For example, on Oct 21, you sold 50 cups of milk tea worth P5,000 to Rizal High School on credit, issuing Invoice 101. Where do we put the 5,000? "Correct! Now, what about the 'Utang'? For that, we use the Purchase Journal."	Students listen attentively and take notes. "Under the Debit Accounts Receivable and Credit Sales columns, Ma'am!"

	"This is used to record all purchases of inventory on credit. The source document here is the Supplier's Charge or Sales Invoice." "The columns are similar but tailored for buying: Date, Description (Supplier's Name), Ref, Invoice No., Debit Purchases, and Credit Accounts Payable." "If we bought 15 bottled syrups worth P4,000 from Sweet Syrups Co. on credit with Invoice 1044, we record it here." "Let's summarize: WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?" "The Sales Journal tracks customers who owe us. The Purchase Journal tracks suppliers we owe. And what's the golden rule for both?" "Exactly! NO CASH ALLOWED." "Now, let's test this. Nov 3, we bought P10,000 worth of plastic cups from ABC Packaging on credit. Which journal? How about Nov 5, we delivered P3,000 worth of fruit teas to the Mayor's Office on account?	Students take notes on the Purchase Journal format and compare it with the Sales Journal. "No cash allowed, Ma'am!" "Purchase Journal" "Sales Journal!"

	"Who wants to volunteer to read and answer the next two scenarios on the board regarding Dado Learning Center and Golden Leaf Traders?"	Student volunteers raise their hands, read the scenarios aloud, and correctly classify them.
Learning Resources: List down the learning resources that will help you reach your objectives. Ensure that they are available and inclusive. Include options and alternatives in case of emergencies.	• Laptop • TV • Whiteboard • Marker	• Pen and paper • Calculator
Opportunities for Integration and Contextualization: Write down any possibilities to meaningfully connect to another learning area, special topic, local context, or technology. Write N/A if none.	Entrepreneurship: Relate the concepts of "pautang" and "utang" to real-world small business survival. Mathematics: Connect the lesson to basic financial mathematics by emphasizing the need for absolute numerical accuracy when copying amounts from source documents to the journals. English: Ask learners to explain why a transaction affects particular accounts. ICT: Use the laptop and TV to display the slides, worked examples and assessment.

Assessing Learning

Assessments reveal what learners have gained and what they still need help with. These are helpful in providing you with information to guide your future instruction throughout the entire session.

Formative Assessment: Create a task, activity or questions to assess learning and provide feedback every now and then. Include ways for learners to ask for guidance or support throughout each session. Remember to provide appropriate accommodation so all learners can demonstrate their understanding (e.g. varied response formats, small group options, visual or auditory supports).	"Alright, it seems you've got the hang of it. Please bring out one whole sheet of paper" "For Part I: Read the 7 transactions on the screen. Simply identify which journal should be used. Write 'Sales Journal' or 'Purchase Journal' before the number. You get 1 point for each correct answer" "For Part II: You have 4 new scenarios. Draw two separate journal tables on your paper—one for Sales, one for Purchase. Record each transaction in the correct table following the format we discussed. This is worth 2 points per correct entry. You have 15 minutes." Roams around the classroom, checking tables and guiding students who are confused about the Invoice Number columns. "Don't forget to write the correct source document number, class!"	Students prepare their materials. Students silently read the items, such as the transaction with Rizal Commercial College and Textile Masters Co., and write their answers Students draw the tables and analyze the entries, accurately placing the St. Jude Academy sale in the Sales Journal and the ColorJet Tech Supplies purchase in the Purchase Journal. "Yes, Ma'am." Students double-check their work and submit the task sheet once finished

Ways Forward	Meaningful learning can also happen beyond the classroom – for both the learners and the teacher. Pause and reflect on what happened today.

Extended Learning Opportunities: Suggest other learning experiences outside the classroom/class hours that learners may want to access to reinforce what they have learned, to spark their curiosities further, or that may provide them support in their areas of difficulty.	"Before we dismiss, here is your assignment. Look for an old receipt or invoice at home, or you can kindly ask a nearby sari-sari store owner if you can see one. Imagine you are the business owner. " "Write a brief sentence explaining whether that document would be recorded in a Sales Journal or a Purchase Journal if the transaction was done 'on account'. Are we clear?"	"Clear, Ma'am! Goodbye and thank you, Ma'am Kim!" Students write down the assignment and pack up their things.
Reflections: Think about what you need to change for the next session based on what happened today. Is there something the learners are interested in exploring? Are there some things you would like to share with your co-teachers, parents, or school leaders about your classroom experience? What would you like your instructional coach to help you with? Reflections may be written in brief notes, bullets, or annotations.
